INDEPENDENT.

The following is the eloquent address, delivered by G. T. Stewart, at Columbus, on the 22d ult., to the national prohibition convention.

MR. PRESIDENT, AND MEMBERS OF THE NATIONAL PROHIBITION PARTY:—In behalf of the prohibition party of Ohio, I have the honor of expressing to you the pleasure with which we welcome you to our State. The party was formed here before it was organized by the national convention of 1869, at Chicago. In six weeks after that convention, we testified in support of its principles at the ballot box, in the two succeeding state elections we increased that first vote more than six fold. Historically connected, this convention stands as the eighth in the organized movement of the last forty years. The first was held at Philadelphia, in the year 1833, and after two days of earnest discussion by the eminent divines and philanthropists assembled there, it arrived at the conclusion that the sale and use of ardent spirits as a beverage is an immortality. The second, which was held at Saratoga, in 1836, declared for the total abstinence pledge. The third, in 1841, adopted the moral and legal absurdity of license and regulation of the liquor traffic by law. The fourth, in 1851, renounced the license error and pronounced for legal prohibition, on the basis of the Maine law. The fifth, at the close of the civil war, in 1865, reiterated the doctrines of total abstinence and prohibition. The sixth, held at Cleveland, in 1868, called for the exercise of ballot as the only effective means to enforce prohibition. The seventh, at Chicago, 1869, gave practical form to this truth by the organization of a National prohibition party. And next in the advance, comes this convention, to lay down a platform worthy of the cause, and to nominate upon it candidates for offices of president and vice president of the United States, to represent before the world its central idea of liberaty conserved by law, and protection enforced by prohibition.

This great doctrine of legal prohibition, which crowns as with gold, the moral, society and civil acme of the cause, to which it has arisen through the progress of these eight national conventions, is no novelty, and this grand political reform, which it inspires is no experment. It is a glorious resurrection from the dead. It comes up from the graves of the fathers. The history of prohibition goes far back of the present movement, to the foundation of the republic. The first national prohibition convention held on this continent was at the old State House in the city of Philadelphia, ninety six years ago, and known in history as the first continental congress. On the 27th day of this month of February, in the year 1776, this platform of prohibition was adopted by the Continental congress, and recorded on its journals:

'Resolved, That it be recommended to the several legislatures of the United States, to immediately pass laws, the most effectual, for putting an immediate stop to the pernicious practice of distilling, by which the most extensive evils are likely to be derived, if not quickly prevented.'

This is a platform brief, radical and right. It strikes at the source of these extensive evils which it forbodes, by prohibiting the manufacture of that, which is also the manufacture to them. It goes to the roots of the deadly Upas—to the fountain heads of the poisoned rivers. It suggests no laws of license, or regulation, or of dollar and cent compensation for resultant injuries but it denounces as 'pernicious,' and calls for the immediate and total prohibition of a business which government now treats as virtuous and honorable. Here we can stand upon this doctrine of the fathers and proudly echo voices like these, while the dram shop politicians and press of the day deride us as fanatical, visionary and impracticable. That memorable congress, having laid down this platform of temperance by prohibition, in about four months after unfurled the flag of freedom, and embodied in the Declaration of Independence those great fundamental truths of the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, which form the basis of the prohibition party.

It had warned the infant republic against 'most extensive evils,' if prohibition should not be enacted, which nearly a century since of awful experience has fully verified. It is estimated that within the last fifty years, in the midst of all the wonderful efforts and achievements of the temperance reform, more than three millions of he American citizens have been destroyed by liquor traffic, and more than seven millions of women and children, under our vaunted flag of protection, have sent up their cries of want, and shame, and woe, by the graves of murdered husbands and fathers, to the protecting and avenging God of the widow and the fatherless. Every year a hundred thousand new victims are added to the sacrifice, and and new cries from broken hearts and blighted homes go up to Heaven. In the dark ages, a class of secret murderers practiced their profession, in France and Italy, with fatal elixirs, with invisible powders, with deadly crystal drops, and other baneful inventions. They were known and feared as the 'Slow Poisoners,' and at that name the cheek of the monarch and noble turned pale in the palace and the poorest peasant trembled in his hovel. No one talked then of license, or regulation, or a civil action for damages and costs. All cried out for instant and total prohibition. From king to peasant, by a common impulse, in view of common danger, all society uprose to seek out and exterminate the murderers, and it was done. But what were those demoniacs of the ages in comparison with the three hundred thousand slow poisoners of this enlightened age and nation? Those slow bodies of a few hundred thousand victims. These have destroyed not only the bodies, but the intellects, the characters and the souls of millions, with an arm of murder that reaches to the lowest hell. And this commerce of death goes on expanding in volume and malignity, sweeping like a simoon before it the young men, the flower of the nation, degrading and destroying those who should become the pillars of strength and beauty in the republic the promise and pride of its future glory. And out of all this ocean of tears and blood, the government draws a yearly revenue of over fifty millions dollars. In other words, government sells the lives of citizens, in the open market, to its own chartered murderers, at about five hundred dollars a head; and the president of the United States in his last annual message, recommendeds that congress shall cultivate this branch of the business as the chief source of internal revenue. Looking on these national altars of human sacrifices, smoking with their slain hecatombs of a hundred thousand a year, we can see the fearful reality of those 'most extensive evils,' predicted by the fathers; and then turning to the pauper houses, idiotic and insane asylums, jails, prisons, penitentiaries and gallowses everywhere crowded with the wretched victims of this infernal traffic, we hear from official reports the old and oft told story, that more than four fifths of the ignorance, vice, poverty and crimes of the nation flow from this 'pernicious' source. Add to this the vast pecuniary loss to the people and the productive industry of the country, estimated at over a thousand millions of dollars a year.

Over all this woe, and waste, and ruin, the political teachers and guides of the people have thrown the mantle of personal rights and popular freedom. 'O, Liberty!' cried the French martyr, Madame Roland, as she was dragged by a drunken mob to the guillotine. 'O, Liberty! what crimes are committed in thy name!' It is in this sacred but profaned, name, and for such carnivals of crime as those which deluged Paris with the blood of its citizens, that the dram shops here are preparing the minds and hearts of the people. O, sacred name of liberty! What though our fathers wrote it in martyred graves over the land, and planked down the stars of heaven to emblazon it on their banners. What though our eagles cry from every mountain peak and bear it upon their rushing wings, through all our boundless skies. This land with lips of blood, those skies with tongues of fire proclaim our perfidy, they upbraid our national hypocrisy and guilty. Here in the midst of all our boasted free institutions, beneath that flag of stars, a million poor maniac slaves of intemperance clank their chains of fire in hopeless, awful servitude. And this million of enslaved lunatics, wield the freeman's ballot, control the elections, and rule the nation. They are bought and sold like beasts in the shambles. Corruption riots at the ballot box, in the halls of legislation, and invades even the sanctuaries of justice. The dram shop is the supreme political power in the nation, and before its rulers and the people, parties and political bow the knee in servile homage and base subserviency. Our republic is fast verging to the precipice over which all the old republics reeled to destruction. It must be speedily saved, or it will be swiftly lost. In the last twelve years the manufacture and traffic of intoxicating liquors has more than doubled in magnitude, and all their crimes and curses have waxed in proportion. Every hour the moral night grows thicker and darker upon the nation, pierced only by the funeral bells of the slain and the wailing of the desolate. The earth is sick of slaughter. The heavens are tired of weeping over the abominations and desolations of this traffic. O, if we yet fold our arms in supineness; if we yet doubt, and pause, and hesitate and linger, it would seem that the dead themselves, the murdered and buried victims of the traffic will rend their sepulchres and do the work for us.

You have come with the only standard unfurled that can rescue the republic and save the people, that of the total prohibition of the manufacture, importation and traffic of intoxicating beverages, as high crimes against God and man.

You come on this day sacred to the memory of him who was 'First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his country men,' whose life illustrated and whose name has consecrated your cause. You come to this state, the first born of the ordinance of 1787, whose immortal charter is sealed with the organic principles of 'Religion, morality, and knowledge,' as 'essential to free government.' You come to this city which bears the name of one of the most renowned of the world's benefactors, whose moral courage should inspire your efforts. In the name of the fathers of the republic, whose mission you have come to fulfill; of the suffering millions whose prayers and tears incite your action; of all the great interests of freedom, civilization and humanity imperilled; of our country in danger; of religion whose Sabbaths are profaned and whose altars are trampled down; and of the God of temperance and freedom who led our fathers in triumph through the battle fires of the revolution, and and who will guide us through all this red sea of evils with a great deliverance, if we trust in Him and do our duty, we bid you welcome to your patriotic labor.

Welcome, thrice welcome!

THE AURORA IN BOTH HEMISPHERES.

A magnificent display of Zodiacal Light was observed in New York city on the evening of Sunday the 4th of February. The deep, tender, rosy suffusion of the eastern heavens and of the zenith was indescribably beautiful, and recalled the line of Mrs. Browning where to Bertram's gaze "the sky grew ruddy with the deepening feet of angels," while the northern horizon was luminous with a cold steel blue tint as of a winter twilight. The display was in its highest glory just as the streets and avenues were filled with church goers for the evening service. Many stopped on the way to look at the wondrous appearance, and lingered at the church door, loth to relinquish so lovely a sight. It is remarkable that on the same evening the people of half the cities and capitals of Europe were gazing at the self same phenomenon. A correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph, writing from Rome under date of February 6, says:

"Almost before the sun had died out of the clear horizon—that is to say, about half past six—note the hour, I beg ye dwellers in Cimmerian fog—we had on Sunday a second glory in the heavens, in the shape of an aurora borealis, which lighted up our transparent sky with a glory not to be forgotten. I read in the telegrams that it has been seen all over Europe, so I need not attempt to describe it; but you can scarcely have listened to such contradictory explanations as I heard from the crowds of Italians who, animated by the love of beauty inherent in them, stood for hours gazing on the lurid light in which the temples of their peerless city seemed to burn. A child, who cried out, 'Oh, it's finer than the Bengal lights in the Coliseum!' was reproved by her stern patriotic father, who read in the blazing firmament a magnified version of the Italian flag. The Papalino on the other hand, saw the manifest finger of God in the fiery message, denouncing the people of Rome for indulging in Carnival festivities while their rightful sovereign was kept a prisoner in the Vatican; and I heard my friend ominously reminding his wife that just such a sign was seen in the heavens after the king's troops had driven the zouaves out of Rome, and shortly before the terrible inundration of the Tiber. Very absurd, this reading of natural phenomena by the light of superstition; but not more so than the theory I overheard, started by an advance liberal, that the aurora was only a fire-work trick got up by the priests to frighten the people just as they were going to enjoy themselves."

We did not hear that the aurora was regarded in the United States as a portent of disaster, indicating a war with England, but had our people been as superstitious as the Italians, such an interpretation would have been absurd considering the fact that the light was visible to half the world. So wide an extent of aurora is worthy of attention, however, from scientific men, as of very rare occurrence.

MUSIC OF THE ROCKING CHAIR.

A good rocking chair is almost an instrument of music. It has a special note for various functions. When grandma sits knitting and swaying with the gentlest motion, the rockers keep up a low, contented purr, a sort of drowsy creak. When the nervous old gentleman gets in, the chair tunes up with a sharp, jerking creak. When Aunt Salty, who is very fat and heavy, sits down, a long and melancholy whine issues from the chair But when only the children are in it the old chair goes whickety whack, in the most gleesome manner.

These sociable chairs never come from modern builders. The moment a cabinet maker has touched a French chair his usefulness is over. The old fashioned workmen who made the old fashioned rocking chairs with strong joints, but every one with a tongue in it, are these not natures workmen? Do they not keep up in their chairs the forest sounds? This very creak that is like the weary swinging of a bough pleading with the wind to let it alone and suffer it to fall asleep. This sharp cracking is heard, when frosts have screwed up every branch and twig to its highest tension.

I have the highest opinion of the value of a ruling passion; but if it monopolizes the whole man, it requires that the object be very comprehensive or a very dignified one to save himself from being the subject of ridicule.

A WORD FOR WOMEN.

Somebody once said that the women of to day are so extravagant in dress, and so helpless in other respects, that none but rich men can afford to marry, and foolish people have been saying the same thing or something like it ever since. Every time a man fails in business, people make a mental inventory of his wife's wardrobe, and cry out, 'Poor fellow, he was ruined by her extravagance.' No account is taken of his club expenses, or his unnecessary restaurant bills, or his fast horses, or the vanity that prompted him to buy a bigger and finer house than he needed. Nothing is said of his dress coats made by some Monsieur Snip, who charges extra prices because he calls himself an artist tailor. The man may have gambled his money away or have lost it in reckless speculation for all anybody knows to the contrary, while his wife, believing him to be rich, has dressed and lived only as his circumstances warranted, doing it, too, only for his sake, that he might not be ashamed to introduce her as his wife. Or if she has been an extravagant as he, the fault is usually his, so long as the fact remains that any proper man can lovingly control the course of any proper wife.

Women are often extravagant. The fact cannot be denied. But that they are more so than men is by no means true. As a rule, every woman wishes to live within her husband's income, and in nine families out of ten all the economizing done at all is done by the wife.

This constant iteration of the charge against women, however has secured a kind of passive acceptance for the theory, and nothing is more common now than for young men with salaries of two or three thousand a year to lament their inability to marry, because women are so extravagant. One of these has recently told the public through the newspapers, how it takes all his salary of two thousand dollars to support him as a single man, and after looking over his bill of items and finding that it takes fifty dollars worth of perfumery every year to keep him sweet, we quite agree with him that he should not marry. A woman weak enough to wed such a youth would probably give him trouble, even with a much larger income than his to draw upon.

The trouble is, men want to live in a more costly style than their income will allow. They hire houses they cannot afford, and buy furniture beyond their means, and put on airs generally, which they cannot maintain. Their wives, knowing less than they of the purse depths at command, accept the husbands' estimate of their ability to live, and they dress as their lords clearly wish them to do. And so the crash comes, and poor William is commiserated, and his little wife's shoulders are saddled with the blame.

A SOUDAN ADVENTURE.

As the boats made their way slowly against the tide, he landed and walked on, till feeling tired, he sat down at the foot of a tree, from which his approach had scared a troop of monkeys.

When they saw me seated quietly, they gradually approached, without evincing alarm. My rifle lay uselessly beside me, for I had expended my last cap, so that had I wished I could not have fired at them. They squatted down to examine me leisurely, with all the grimmaces and pantomimes usual in those that have been domesticated. Occasionally they would quarrel and show their teeth. One crawling up, began to feel the barrel of my rifle, and finally grasped the strap to carry it off, but found it too heavy. Thinking them too familiar, I threw a stone or two, which scattered the tribe, and some fled to the branches overhead, where they began to annoy me by shaking down dead boughs.

They descended again, but did not come so near me. I was so amused at their antics, that I sat there without noticing the time, when suddenly from the forest came the long drawn howl of the jackal, answered from various quarters and followed by a period of silence, during which the animals assemble, when a general howl is given, but is not renewed unless some of the pack strays off.

Night came on me. From every quarter rose howls and cries; the boat was not yet in sight. I could not remain, and to reach the boat seemed fearfully dangerous, and I was unarmed.

I started up and cautiously threaded my way through the gathering gloom, peering into every turf of bushes, when suddenly I heard a fearful sigh, a drawing in of the breath, that surpassed any forge bellows I ever heard. I stood paralyzed. Again the long breath, and then came a roar that shook the very forest. A lion stood right in my path.

After a few moments, cries and howls began anew; and I felt that my only hope might be in swimming, if I could do so without noise. I advanced along the beach with care till I came to a bit of woods. This I entered with deep misgivings, heightened by a hideous laugh, almost at my heels, the cry of the loathsome hyena. I pushed on, every now and then placing myself close to a tree to peer around me. At last I reached a spot on the shore whence I could see the barque. My heart bounded but I was not out of danger. A dark form was silhouetted on the sky just before me. I slunk back, and the animal vanished, doubtless a prey to the lion.

Then I pushed on steadily, but how the time hung! I seemed to make no progress, but at last I distinguished the men on board, and hailed. Heaven be thanked! the answer came, and they were bounding forward to help me. It was well, for my strength was gone, so overwrought had been my nervous system.

HIGH LIVING AND POOR THINKING

'I can't think why my brain works so slowly this winter,' said Howard, to his friend William. 'I can't study or write with half the ease I used to. I have made such poor recitations lately, I am ashamed of myself. It isn't laziness. 'Pon my word, I do try, and try hard.'

'I believe you, Howard, and I think I know the secret of your difficulty. But I doubt if it will do much good to tell you, you will not like to reform.'

'I hold a very different opinion. So please state your views, and I will try to profit.'

'Go back to your old boarding place.'

'Now, Will, you are joking. You would not have me go back to that poor old place, with their coarse fare, when I pay no more here than I did there.'

'But you will save a great deal by it. You will save your scholarship. It is the rich food you are eating, the hot mince pies and high seasoned dishes that are making your brain so dull and sluggish. If you want the mind clear, live plainly, eat enough of good plain wholesome food, well prepared, and never tempt yourself to intemperance, by unwholesome luxuries. The blood quickly becomes impure by intemperate eating, and carries its load of impurities to the brain, clogging all its energies. Plain living and high thinking go together, and the converse is just as true.

There are other scholars who would be the better for following similar advice.—School-day Visitor.

THE MIGHTY EVIL.

Intemperance is a mighty evil—mighty in its waste of property, costing annually in the United States, directly for liquor $1,491,865,000, and indirectly in expenses and losses $1,250,000,000 more, and destroying 62,000,000 bushels of grain.

It is mighty as the parent of crime, causing yearly 600 murders, 400 suicides, sending 200,000 to prison.

It is mighty in its crushing effects on little children, clothing multitudes of them in rags, and sending yearly 200,000 to poor houses, hospitals and other charitable institutions.

It is mighty in the destruction of human life, causing yearly the death of 60,000 drunkards, including 570 deaths by delerium tremens and 3,000 by other forms of insanity; and making at the same time 30,000 widows and 90,000 orphans.

It is mighty in its waste of moral men, gathering an army of 2,807,200 tipplers, and adding yearly from that number, 93,574, to the 60,000 confirmed drunkards that continually exist in our country.

It is mighty in its destruction of souls, treading in the dust every commandment, shutting out means of grace, searing the conscience, and fitting the spirit for everlasting despair.

It is mighty because it is sustained by a combination of wealth, capital, law, fashion, and all the elements of this world.—Temp. Vindicator.

BUSINESS LAW.

It is not really necessary to say on a note for value received.

A note on Sunday is void.

A note obtained by fraud, or from a person in a state of intoxication, cannot be collected. If a note be lost or stolen, it does not release the maker, he must pay it.

An endorser of a note is exempt from liability if not served with notice within twenty four hours of its non payment.

A note by a minor is void.

Notes bear interest only when so stated. Principals are responsible for the acts of their agents.

Each individual in partnership is responsible for the whole amount of the debts of the firm.

Ignorance of the law excuses no one.

An agreement without consideration is void.

Signatures made with a lead pencil are good in law.

A receipt for money paid is not legally conclusive.

Contracts made on Sunday cannot be enforced.

A WINE BATH.

An American traveler desiring while in Paris, to take a bath, his physician recommended a wine bath. In the employ of the establishment was a colored man, whom he had known in America, and of him he inquired how they could afford to give a wine bath for seventy five cents.

'Why, massa,' said the negro, 'that wine has been in the bath room one week, and you are the thirty-eighth person that has bathed in it.'

'Well, I suppose they throw it away when they are done with it.'

Oh! no, massa; they send it down stairs for the poor people who bathe in it for twenty five cents.'

'And then what do they do with it?'

'Bottle it up and send it to America, where they sell it for French wine.'

The Independent.

Two Dollars a year, in advance.

Massillon, Wednesday, March 13.

Last weeks papers brought us Columbus news to the effect that owners of property in which grogshops are located, are becoming frightened at the prospects of a more stringent enforcement of the law against liquor selling, and are concluding to rent no property to be used in that way. Certain it is that this sort of business is daily becoming more and more hazardous, and there is a day of judgment coming to these offenders. Some of them have become rich in sowing the seeds of iniquity, but their wealth is only corroded blood money, which will haunt them with visions of crime, murder and death.

More trouble is coming on the great ring of thieves and robbers of New York. For the last few weeks it seemed as if the prosecution might fail in sustaining their charges for want of direct and indisputable testimony. But on last Friday, when the case of Mayor Hall was up for examination Mr. Tremaine, the prosecuting lawyer, produced a witness, who must know much if not all about the rascalities of the ring, for he was one of them himself, and pocketed his hundreds of thousands of dollars for doing but little work. This was Mr. Garvey. His presence excited consternation in Hall and his co operators who were present, for according to what the papers say, Garvey knows it all, and will tell it. When rogues fall out, and everybody knows the rest.

Certain theorizers on the temperance question have long and often labored to make the world believe that what are called wine countries, where the juice of the grape is a common beverage, are composed of comparatively sober people. France is reported as a wine country. Recent news from there states that to such an extent is drunkenness increasing, that the national government has found it necessary to resort to legislation in order to try to put a stop to the prevailing evil. What better plan can be adopted than a system of national prohibition of the manufacture and sale of drunkard making drinks?

A goodly number of republican papers are somewhat fiercely pitching into Mr. Greeley in particular and the Tribune in general because the editor refuses to be a mere party organ. More than a third of a century's observation should teach our brethren that Mr. Greeley was always that way—he has ever had an independent way of thinking and writing, no matter who was in or out of power, and now, in his advancing years, it would hardly be fair to ask him to change his general course in regard to political action. He will play organ for no party of men, though he has as a general rule, been in sympathy with the republican party, ever since its organization. That is what we understand to be untrammelled independence—not so attached to any class or party of men as to try to sustain them, right or wrong—"murder and treason not excepted"—in short, go it blind for our side, let it do what it will. While the Tribune and its editor may seem erratic in the sense in which mere politicians view such things, it has a secret power to which few if any of them can justly lay claim, and perhaps none of them can wield, and that is its moral influence. As between right and wrong in this sense, are many of the questions of the day, this paper utters no uncertain sound—on mere matters of policy it is free to criticise who ever comes in the way.

Notwithstanding all this practical independence to party loyalty the Tribune and its editor has a hobby, if it may be called such without irreverence, and that is, it goes in for a pretty big tariff, under the name of protection. On other questions it may seem to vascillate or oscillate as between mere partizans, but on this question it has been, as it were, yesterday, to day and forever the same. If there is a political unpardonable sin, in the estimation of Mr. Greeley, it is that of going for free trade. His party fealty to this idea is stereotyped—as unchangable as the laws of the Medes and Persians—it knows no variableness or shadow of turning. On this point he is consistent. Can a man be expected to go contrary to his convictions, merely to whistle to the tune of his party? That will be asking too much of that class who proudly call themselves independent Americans.

But while all this is true, as there must and will be parties, it is necessary for somebody to speak in their behalf. To us it looks as if a man can do this, yet act in such a way as to sacrifice his personality and independence of thought. A poor little partizan who imagines he must turn the crank to whistle the same tune eternally, as the street minstrels do in order to gain a few pennies, is a meager specimen of American independence. A man should always avail himself of what are called sometimes reserved rights—that is, think and speak for himself, let even the party with which he affiliates be ever so domineering and arbitrary. A mere partizan is a tool—often a dull one—an independent man is a prince on the earth.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION.

The republicans of Stark county will meet in Harter's Hall, Canton, O., on Saturday the 16th of March 1872, at 1 o'clock, p. m. to select delegates to the state convent on that will be held at Columbus on Wednesday the 27th inst., for the purpose of nominating a state ticket for the coming October election; and also to make choice of four delegates at large to the national republican convention to assemble at Philadelphia on the 5th day of June, A. D. 1872, to nominate candidates for president and vice president of the U. S at the ensuing presidential election; and also to nominate two electors at large for president and vice president.

The delegates selected from Stark county are requested to meet at convention in Columbus the delegates sent from the other counties of this district for the purpose of appointing district delegates to represent the 17th district at the national convention.

Stark county is entitled to ten delegates to said state convention.

Early, prompt, harmonious and continued action of the republican party will lead to victory at the coming election; as well as vindicate the wisdom of its policy in the past.

"Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

A. W. HELDENBRAND,
Chairman Republican Central Committee, Stark County.

Last week we remarked that the grog party had boasted loudly as to the big petition they sent from Cleveland with, as they said, some 14,000 names, to the legislature, asking that the temperance laws be modified, so as to give the grogsellers a better chance to carry on their murderous business. Since then we have been noticing the number of the names as reported and published in the daily papers, as petitioners on one side or the other, on this subject. It is very evident that two parties can and do work at this business, and from the figures we collect we infer that the grog party is not sailing on so clear of opposition as they would wish. In last week's paper we gave the sum of the petitioners of three or four days, and the result was, grog had 719 names, while our side had 11,080. Continuing this collection of figures we have as a result the following table:

	Greg	No Grog
Last week's sum,	719	11,030
March 5	000	1.581
6	000	2,034
7	218	5,307
8	701	2,103
9	5,225	6,218
11	865	696
	10,718	28,794

Here we see that in ten days the grog party are beaten nearly three to one. And the more they attempt to work at this business the more they will get beaten. Then we see that they are not in harmony in asking the legislature for what they want. Saturday's budget of petitions came largely from Dayton and other towns, and they ask that power be taken from municipal authorities to enact laws against the sale of ale, beer, and such drinks, while the mass of previous petitioners want the law changed so as not to hold property responsible for liquor depredations On the other hand there is harmony among the petitioners on our side, or if there is any deversity it is, that many ask for stronger laws than we now have.

These indications make it pretty clear to us that if any alteration is made in the temperance laws it will be in making them more stringent, if our law makers heed the voice of the people. If they disregard these monitions it will be the day of judgment with some of them.

The Y M. C. A. is now ready to receive donations of books, as they have procured a library case to be placed in their rooms. All donations of valuable books will be gratefully received.

One Henry Powers, of Charlestown, Portage county, started for home, drunk, on the 26th day of December last, became stupefied, and took refuge in a barn where he spent the night, a bitter cold one. His feet were frozen, and the doctors have since taken off parts of them, and it is said he is maimed for life. One Samuel Beardsley of Cambellsport, sold the liquor, and now the wife of Powers has commenced suit against the liquor vender, laying her damages at $5,500: Beardsley is a man of property, made largely by liquors, and it looks as though he stands a pretty fair chance to disgorge.

A law has been enacted in the Onio legislature to allow $10,000 as the maximum amount of damages that may be recovered from R R companies as pensation for causing death by wrongful act, neglect, or default.

The following note was addressed to the liquor dealers of Steubenville, by Judge Miller, of the common pleas court:

DEAR SIR:—In order to prevent surprise, I drop these few lines to inform you that in cases where parties have heretofore been convicted, or plead guilty of violation of the liquor laws, shall be hereafter convicted of similar offenses in the court of common pleas of this county, the outside money penalty and a term of imprisonment will be sentenced. Yours, very respectfully, J. H. MILLER.

Brownsville, Texas, March 10.—The report of the recent meeting of stockholders shows that in the latter half of February 2,000 cattle, to the value of $40 000, were crossed over the Rio Grande, by Mexican banditti, within thirty miles of Brownsville. This is a fair sample of the depradations taking place along the line.

Another snow storm on the Pacific road is reported from Great Salt Lake, though not of a character seriously to interrupt the running of the trains. In the immediate Mississippi Valley and in the region of the great lake they have had during the last two days the haviest snow fall of the season, and if we escape a similar northeaster this time we may yet have it within the next two weeks, the season of our equinoctial storms.

The Philadelphia Record says among manufacturers and dealers in woolen goods there is no subject at this time that attracts so much attention as the high price of wool. It adds:

"Manufacturers in Europe are full of orders. Stocks are light and it seems probable that the clip of 1872 throughout the world will be eagerly competed for both by manufacturers and dealers. In the United States, this probability amounts to an absolute certainty. The stocks of domestic wool are nearly exhausted, and the new clip will not be on the market, even at the present high prices, before July or August. During most of the intervening time, the mills in this country will have to be run on foreign wools, or else stop. The latter will most probably be the alternative chosen, as it must be remembered that the cost of wools abroad is high, and they are subject to a very high duty. These facts with the state of the markets for furnished goods, portend the most serious times for the manufacturers of woolens."

The women of Estherville, Emmet county, Iowa, are it seems a temperance law within and unto themselves. One day last week they concluded the evils of the two saloons in Estherville could no longer be borne, and so concluding, went to work to rid the town of them. According to the local chronicle, twenty-five of the ladies, mothers, daughters, wives and coming from the most worthy families of the place, in a body proceeded without warning to the objects of their dislike, to carry out the determination they had arrived at by counseling one with another. Slight resistance was met with at the first saloon, but they overpowered it, and made quick and effective work in the demolition of casks, decanters, jars, bottles, &c., and poured the liquid and spirituous contents into the street. For the distance of a block the gutter was swimming with whisky, and the interiors of the saloons presented a scene of desolation and ruin that one seldom beholds in a peaceable community. After this work was done the ladies quietly returned to their homes, satisfied with their action but still expressing a determination to persevere in the temperance cause, and to repeat their performance when ever it shall become necessary.

Religious discussions at Rome.—By mail advices we received from Herald's correspondent in Rome a full account of the recent religious discussions in that city between Protestant preachers and a number of the Catholic clergy. The subject discussed by those religious disputants—"Was St. Peter Ever in Rome?"—was argued in a most commendable spirit of good feeling on both sides. The evangelicals maintained the negative side of the question, while the priests took the ground that the prince of the Apostles not only was in Rome, but discharged the duties of his holy mission there. The well known Father Gavazzi took part in the debate and sided with the Protestants in attempting to prove the correctness of their theory. The proceedings terminated in the most amicable manner possible, both parties maintaining that their side had the best of the debate.—N. Y. Herald.

CELEBRATED

Horse and Cattle Powders.

This preparation, long and favorably known, will thoroughly re-invigorate broken down and low-spirited horses, by strengthening and cleansing the stomach and intestines.

It is a sure preventive of all diseases incident to this animal, such as LUNG FEVER, GLANDERS, YELLOW WATER, HEAVES, COUGHS, DISTEMPER, FEVERS, FOUNDER, LOSS OF APPETITE AND VITAL ENERGY, &c. Its use improves the wind, increases the appetite—gives a smooth and glossy skin—and transforms the miserable skeleton into a fine-looking and spirited horse.

To keepers of Cows this preparation is invaluable. It is a sure preventive against Rinderpest, Hollow Horn, etc. It has been proven by actual experiment to increase the quantity of milk and cream twenty per cent. and make the butter firm and sweet. In fattening cattle, it gives them an appetite, loosens their hide, and makes them thrive much faster.

In all diseases of Swine, such as Coughs, Ulcers in the Lungs, Liver, &c., this article acts as a specific. By putting from one-half a paper to a paper in a barrel of swill the above diseases will be eradicated or entirely prevented. If given in time, a certain preventive and cure for the Hog Cholera.

MILLIONS Bear Testimony to the Wonderful Curative Effects of DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA

J. WALKER Proprietor. R. H. McDONALD & Co. Druggists and Gen. Ag'ts, San Francisco, Cal., and 32 and 34 Commerce st, N.Y.

Vinegar Bitters are not a vile Fancy Drink. Made of Poor Rum Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and A LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also, the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erisipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effect.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores, cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE, and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French and Spanish.

At last we have heard something about the prohibition candidate for president. The Lancaster (Pa.) Inquirer, published at his home says of him: "For more than twenty years Mr. Black has been an uncompromising advocate of a prohibition law, and since 1842 a strict teetotaler. From the time of the organization of the republican party until quite recently he was a faithful supporter of that organization. He is a gentleman of fine ability and great force, and few more effective speakers in the temperance cause have been in the field."

Old prejudices are dying out. New facts are killing them. The idea that invalids weakened by disease can be relieved by prostrating them with destructive drugs, is no longer entertained except by monomaniacs. Ever since the introduction of Dr Walker's Vinegar Bitters it has been obvious that their regulating and invigorating properties are all sufficient for the cure of chronic indigestions, and malarious fevers, and they are now the standard remedy for these complaints in every section of the Union.

Vitalize the Hair.—Why does the hair become harsh and dry—why does it fall out—why does it become gray? Simply because the life has gone out of it. The fibers draw substance from the scalp as the grass draws aliment from the soil, and when the supply of nutriment is cut off in either case the product withers and dies. At the first symptom of decay, therefore the unfed roots of the should be refreshed and reinforced with Lyon's Kathairon, the only preparation which will nourish the filaments and keep them in a vigorous condition after they have begun to suffer from a deficiency of to their natural stimulant. As long as the Kathairon is faithfully used, with a proper degree of friction, morning and evening, so long will it be impossible for the hair to whiten or fall out from the scalp.

LOCAL MATTERS.

SOCIAL.—The Presbyterian social will be held next Thursday evening March 14th at the residence of Thomas Russell on Prospect street. All are cordially invited to be present.

Ice cream and cake extra.

The mite society of the Episcopal church will meet at the house of Joseph Hatmaker, on South street on Friday evening. These people make these socials quite pleasant and somewhat instructive.

A great many more of our young people ought to attend Mr Knight's singing classes, which meet Tuesday and Friday evenings in Richheimer's Hall. A new term soon begins --let it be well patronized.

We notice in the last number of the American that, in pursuance to the suggestion of Dr Ebell a society for the study of natural history was formed in this place during the fore part of week before the last. A constitution has been drafted and adopted, and in accordance to its requirements officers have been elected. The following are the names: E A Jones, president; Miss Sarah R Folger, and Miss Sarah Hoxworth, vice presidents, Miss Cora Kelly, secretary; H T Beatty, treasurer; James Dunn, curator: Misses Kittie Patton and Minnie Folger, and S. Parsons executive committee. This is a highly commendable organization, and our young people should be active in promoting the objects for which it was instituted, and older people should not be backward in aiding it.

Come and see us for prints and calico shirting. We can show you the nicest styles. Humberger & Son.

About the time the new moon was making its advent, which was last Saturday, the fierceness of the freezing cold began to subside, and a milder atmosphere came to us. The little snow which fell here on Thursday night and Friday morning soon became mixed up with the dust on our streets, which was as plenteous as in Summer time and when the little rain of Friday night, and thaw of Saturday followed, mud was the order of the day. Since then the birds have began to give us their cheering music—lu rain and a great abundance of it is very much needed.

A few days ago Briggs & Bro., of Rochester, New York, dealers in seeds, bulbs and roots for producing innumerable variety of flowers, sent us a splendid chromo, such as everybody likes to look upon and admire for its richness of colors and fidelity to nature. The season is now opening when it is suitable for procuring all such objects of rare beauty and utility as every well regulated family will enjoy, and will have if possible. Briggs & Bro can supply everything of this kind in quantities to suit purchasers.

The roof of the Presbyterian church which suffered somewhat from fire a few days ago, is already repaired, and when the frescoing is refixed the house will be open for worship.

Mr. Heppard the proprietor of Massillon Mills, has been improving and extending the facilities of the establishment so as to place it among the first class manufacturing agencies of that character Not long ago the mill was limited to three runs of stones, and these did considerable work. But now additional machinery has been introduced and five runs of stones are constantly whirling with lightning rapidity, turning out about 1600 barrels of flour every week, or more than 260 barrels every day. Adequate steam power has been introduced to propel the entire machinery, which makes a continuous run, day and night, for at least six days in the week. Massillon flour has long been known as among the best in the market, and its reputation is well sustained by the present proprietor.

A Dalton soldier boy, who was with the union army during the war—or at least a large part of the time—when visiting Romney, Va., confiscated a printer's stick—that iron implement which the compositor holds in his hand, in which he places the types It is a substantial, strongly made piece of work, but by no means of elegant finish, nor is it got up in modern style. Belonging to a rebel office, which was located in a town which was considered secure from the hated tread of the union soldier; away in the heart of the sacred soil, there is not much doubt but that this stick was often filled with the rankest of rebel ideas, and thus did its part in aiding the rebellion. Without ceremony the boys destroyed the office, and perhaps did much other damage, as soldiers will do in war times, when making inroads in a enemy's country. It is unpleasant to refer to such incidents now, as peace once more pervades the land, but as this is one of the war items it is not deemed out of place to make a note of it. If any apology may be suggested for this treatment of the rebels it might consist in the fact that, supposing they had been successful in overturning the government, our towns, cities and country places would have fared perhaps worse than they did at the hands of the union forces. They got off pretty easy—at least the leaders did.

John R Dangler of the firm of McLain, Dangler & Co., has gone east for a new and extensive stock of dry goods. Having sold out a large portion of their previous stock this enterprising and energetic firm is now prepared to open out soon with a new and varied assortment, of the best the market affords in their trade. In the line of dry goods customers will find everything they need to supply the uncounted wants required for use at this well known and permanently established stand—corner of Main and Erie streets. Our goods buying community well know that good bargains can always be had at this store—call and see.

Mr. Coleman is one of our wide awake business men—always up to the times in his branch of business, and of course prepared to furnish his customers with the latest and most improved goods in his line. See his new advertisement elsewhere in today's issue and dont fail to give him a call.

At the coal mines last Saturday was pay day, and that brought a good many people to town. And beside this there were many country people, so that Main street was well filled, for some distance, with horses and vehicles of various descriptions.

After an absence of some five months Mr Hardy, who has been managing the mechanical part of putting up the Davenport iron bridges, manufactured in this city, at Indianapolis, has just returned home, where he will remain a short time, and then again go west to engage in the same business. His experience and skill in this arduous and heavy work seems to peculiarly fit him for such emergencies; and being continued at the work is evidence that he renders satisfaction. The Davenport iron bridge is coming into such general use, that we have several times taken favorable notice of it, and commends itself to the good opinion of all who are unbiased judges.

We are informed by not a few papers that the spring election is near at hand, and that parties should be preparing for the contest. The officers to be chosen at that time are limited in power and extent, being confined to township and town or city limits, yet they are of sufficent importance to be looked after by all good citizens Drunken officers, for instance, are not the men to fill responsible places. Where democrats prevail they wont tolerate and elect republican officers, nor will republicans choose democrats as long as they can avoid it. Now if these merely political differences are to have so much influence at our elections, certainly moral worth should not be overlooked.

The time for spring is soon to be here, whether the weather is suitable or not. Of course everybody will want to clean up—wash off—if water is to be had; and as soap is indispensable for that purpose, remember the Massillon Soap Works, where the best article in that line can be had and is disposed of at reasonable rates.

If a cold long winter is favorable to the production of maple sugar, certainly the approaching season should be a good one for that purpose. The lack of snow may be somewhat in the way, but the cold should make up for that and more too.

I. S. CROOKS.

There is considerable truth in the remark which somebody prints that runs thus: If a man laboring for wages receive regularly six dollars a week he will manage to keep a family and get along, but if he receives ten or fifteen dollars a week he will soon get in debt, and before long break up. This may not be true in all cases, but it is so in too many instances. The men who get what seems to be small wages are economical: those in receit of larger wages often become extravagant, and soon find out they cant make both ends meet. That is the way it looks. Economy is good at all times, but waste leads to want.

Somebody was remarking a few evenings since that there is a possibility of dispensing with the services of the teacher of penmanship in our public schools. Like many report pts it may be mere rumor, and we hope it is True, it does cost something to keep a teacher in this useful branch of education—indispensable to the education of our youth—but this meger expense is trifling in comparison to the disadvantages of leaving the schools without such instructor. The superintendent has his duties to perform, and so have his assistants, so it might seem as the art of writing is likely to be overlooked. But we think our excellent board of trustees are gentlemen of too much practical judgement to adopt so unfortunate a decision as the one rumer hints at.

It may be all right, but not the less strange to us, and that is, the fact that we are favored with a visit from that excellent paper, the Tuscarawas Chronicle, once in about three months. We have been sending the Independent regularly, until the last two or three weeks, to Uhrichsville, but no response came for months until the Chronicle of the 7th inst.

The Pittsburg conference of the M. E. church meets at Allegheney city, Pa., to day After two years' service as paster of the church, in this place, Rev. E Hingley preached his concluding sermon on last Sunday evening. He may be returned here another year, as the polity of that church allows a man to be at a station three year —we cant tell about this till after conferance is over, which will be about next week.

A sort of bogus foot race took place in West Massillon on last Thursday for $50 a side, between two men, one said to be from Pittsburgh and the other from Fulton. Report says the Fulton man beat, but we have not heard how much of a speculation the parties realized.

About 1 o'clock last Wednesday a fire alarm was raised, as the roof of Mr. Cummings house who lives west of the canal was seen to be on fire. The firemen were promptly on hand, but fortunately their services were not seriously needed, as the fire was soon suppressed.

Killinger & Co., of the Massillon Foundry and Machine Works, have recently bought the extensive stock of house patterns, formerly owned by John Laird & Sons. This stock embraces the patterns of the castings used in the Cassilly, Buckius and Hane blocks in this city, and also those of the court house. They previously owned the patterns of the iron work on the Massillon Opera House and other buildings in that city. This acquisition therefore gives them a large and desirable assortment of patterns for general house castings and enables them to offer special inducements to builders and contractors.—Rep. and Rep.

Massillon, January 23, 1872. 442

In referring to the excellent coffee for sale at D D McDonald's two or three weeks ago, we made out that he was selling Dilworth & Co's coffee, but stand corrected—he has roasted coffee put up by Dilworth Bros. of Pittsburgh, which is claimed to be in every way a superior article. He sells lots of it We don't sit in judgment on that sort of drink, but there is a full quorum of jurors who do, and their verdict is exceedingly favorable. This mistake comes in consequence of not being a coffee critic.

Lieut. Commander W. H. Folger, after a brief visit to the home of his childhood, has received the appointment of assistant inspector of ordnance, at the national arsenal located at Pittsburg.

Street boys have begun to form rings and flip marbles, notwithstanding the weather is unpleasantly cold most all the time.

About 1:30 o'clock yesterday a street musician surprised our citizens by sending forth loud strains from his grinder. Somebody said he was a crippled soldier, and for this and his strains he must have received some aid and comfort.

A CARD.—The pastor, officers and members of the Presbyterian church would express their high appreciation of the prompt and timely efforts of the firemen and citizens in suppressing the fire which came so near destroying their house of worship, on Tuesday of last week.

Washington, March 10.—Chief Justice M. Kean, of Utah, is still in Washington on business connected with the policy of the Territory, and has had several interviews with the president and attorney general Williams. There is no probability whatever that the original suits already commenced and pending will be abandoned. A measure will soon be introduced in Congress supplying the necessary pecuniary means to meet the expenses of the prosecution. Some of the members of congress are considering the subject of a supplemental anti Polygamy bill, in order to obviate the present obstacles. The act cannot be enforced owing to the theory with which Polygamy marriages are consumated. A remedy is suggested by making proof of cohabitation, or an acknowledgement of same kind sufficient to sustain the indictments.

The senate sub-committee on commerce have finally agreed on a bill: First, allowing materials for constructing steamships by section or otherwise to be entered free of duty and allowing drawback. Second, ship supplies and coal to be withdrawn from bond, duty free Third, American vessels registered in foreign countries allowed to register as American vessels within two years. Forth, steamships of foreign build not less than one thousand tons may be purchased and be entitled to American registers. Five, In case of war all said vessels may be used in marine service by the government on equipment.

PLANTATION BITTERS.

S. T.—1860—X.

This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women were especially subject, it is unexceeding every other stimulant. In alls climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and reaks down the animal spirits. 444-1y

LYON'S KATHAIRON.

For Preserving and Beautifying the Human Hair. To Prevent its Falling Out and Turning Gray.

A well preserved head of hair in a person of middle age, at once bespeaks refinement, elegance, health and beauty. It may truly be called woman's crowning glory, while men are not insensible to its advantages and charms. Few things are more disgusting than thin, frizzly, harsh, untamed hair, with head and coat covered with dandruff. Visit a barber and you look and feel like a new man. This is what Lyon's Kathairon will do all the time. The charm which lies in well placed hair, glossy curls, luxuriant tresses, and a clean head, is noticeable and irresistable. Sold by all druggists and country stores 102—449-1y.

At a meeting of the State Central Woman Suffrage committee of California, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, The Hon. George W. Julian has defined his position in the following words, "we submit that an aristocracy founded on color or race and its principle is as morally vicious as it is logically false;" therefore be it

Resolved, That our first choice as nominee for president of the United States is Hon. George W. Julian, of Indiana, subject to the decision of the Woman's National convention.

A series of experiments, instituted to test the average loss in weight by drying, shows that corn loses about one fourteenth by the process. From this the statement is made that farmers will make more money by selling unshelled corn in the fall at seventy five cents than the following summer at one dollar per bushel; and that wheat at $1.32 in December is equal to $1 50 for the same wheat in the June following. This estimate is made on the basis of interest at seven per cent., and takes no account of loss from the depredations of vermin. These facts are worthy of consideration.

What Dyspepsia May End In.

Indigestion is not dangerous say the faculty. Perhaps not in itself, while it remains indigestion; but look at the consequences to which it may lead, and often does lead when it becomes a chronic disease. A spark of fire is a small thing. A pressure of the foot will put it out; a breath will extinguish it. Yet it may fire a powder mill, or kindle a flame that will consume a city. In like manner indigestion may produce gastritis, cancer of the stomach, congestion of the bowels, apoplexy, liver disease, and many other dangerous maladies. Is it not wise then, to check it in the germ? Nothing is more clearly and indisputably established than that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will eradicate dyspepsia in all its stages. The true policy, however, is to extinguish it in the first stages, with this wholesome, powerful, and infallable tonic and alterative. It is easier to quench a spark than a flame, and it is easier to cure dyspepsia when it first developes, than when it has made headway by neglect, and become complicated with other ailments. There is not the shadow of a doubt that the bitters are as directly antagonistic to dyspepsia as water is to fire. There are thousands of cases on record proving this fact. The remedy is safe and agreeable. All the liquors of commerce prescribed as stimulants leave a sting behind. But the sting is taken out of the spirituous basis of this great remedy by vegetable medication, and moreover, the stimulant thus medicated is of exceptional purity. Of all tonics taken as safeguards or remedies for fever and ague, bilious remittents, and other epidemics, it is the only one that can uniformly be depended on.

JURUBEBA

WHAT IS IT?

It is a sure and perfect remedy for all diseases of the liver and spleen, enlargements or obstruction of intestines, urinary, uterine or abdominal organs, poverty or a want of blood, intermittent or remittent fevers, inflamation of the liver, dropsy, sluggish circulation of the blood, abscesses, tumors, jaundice, scrofula, dyspepsia, ague and fevers or their concomittants.

Dr. Wells having become aware of the extraordinary medicinal properties of the south American plant, called sent a special commission to that country to procure it in its native purity, and having found its wonderful curative properties to even excell the anticipations formed by its great reputation, has concluded to offer it to the public, and is happy to state that he has perfected arrangements for a regular monthly supply of this wonderful plant. He has spent much time in experimenting and investigating as to the most efficient preparation from it, for popular use, and has for some time used in his own practice with most happy results the effectual medicine now presented to the public as

Dr Wells' Extract of Jurubeba.

And he confidently recommends it to family as a household remedy which be freely taken as a blood purifier in rangements of the system and to a certain extent all weak and lymphatic temperaments. John Q. Kellogg, Platt st. N. Y. Sole agent for the United States. Price one dollar per bottle Send for circular.

Dr. Hall advances a theory that food can be used as a curative remedy equally well with medicine. He relates a case where a man was cured of biliousness by going without his supper and the free use of lemonade This patient rose, he says, after he began the use of this drink, refreshed, and with a feeling as though his blood had been literally cleansed. He further says that he cures cases of spitting blood by using salt; epilepsy and yellow fever by watermelons; kidney affections by celery; poison, olive or sweet oil; erysipelas, pounded cranberries applied to the part affected; hydrophobia, onions. If this theory is correct, drugs would become drugs in the market, and the people would soon learn that the way to keep well was to eat certain kinds of food. The world would thus become healthier and happier.

During the terrible storm of fire that destroyed so many human lives, and swept away the beautiful village of Peshtego, William Shepherd, with his servant girl and little boy, took refuge in a swamp a little distance from the village, they were followed by a little spaniel dog, Ned, formerly owned in this city. Shortly after the party was joined by Mr. Burns, who was nearly destitute of clothing. Shepherd, with a generosity characteristic of the man, took off his coat and gave it to Mr. Burns as they stood there. He expressed a desire for a hat, when Ned started for the burning village—all attempts to call him back proved unavailing—and in about fifteen minutes he returned with a hat in his mouth, which he laid at Mr. Burns' feet. This is a fact; you can draw your own conclusions.—Racine Journal.

COULDN'T SEE IT.

The worthy gentlemen who rules the rising generation of boys in a certain town in Tennessee had occasion recently to correct a little boy named Johnny. Now Johnny had what is called the sulks because he was whipped, and in order to convince him he was justly purished, his teacher made the following argument:

'Now Johnny, suppose you were riding a big horse to water, and had a keen switch in your hand, and all at once the horse were to stop and refuse to go any further, what would you do?'

Johnny stifled up his sobs for a moment, and looking up through his tears, innocently replied, 'I'd cluck him, sir.

'But, Johnny, suppose he wouldn't go for your clucking, what then?'

'I'd get down and lead him, sir.'

'And what if he were obstinate and would not let you lead him?'

'Why, I'd take off his bridle and turn him loose and walk home, sir.'

'You may go to your seat, Johnny.'

Johnny could not be made to see the necessity for using the switch.

Spurgeon delights in the story of the genuine conversion of a servant girl. When she was asked, on joining the church,—

'Are you converted?'

'I hope so, sir.'

'What makes you really a child of God?'

'Well, sir, there's a great change in me from what there used to be.'

'What is that change?'

'I don't know, sir; but there's a change in all things; but there is one thing, I always sweep under the mats, now.'

How the French Build.—The French practice in building is a good one. Instead of using flimsy lath for thin partitions, they employ stout pieces of oak, as thick as garden palings. These they nail firmly on each of the framing of the partition and fill the spaces between with rubble and plaster of Paris. They coat the whole with plaster. The floors are managed in the same way; as well as the upper side of the stairs. Houses are thus rendered as near fire proof as if built of stone throughout. In Nottingham, England, where they have gypsum in the neighborhood, as in Paris, they form their floors and partitions in the same old manner; consequently a building is rarely burned down in that populous manufacturing town.

Gen Crawford, commanding the military district of northern Alabama, expresses the opinion that South Carolina Florida, Mississippi, and Louisiana will be the negro states—the black man permanently in the majority, and that the unfortunate mulattoes will be looked down upon because tainted with white blood! And some of us can remember the time when we vehemently denounced 'abolition' because its consummation would 'send all the niggers north.'

A candid old bachelor says: 'After all, a woman's heart is the sweetest thing in the world; it's a perfect honeycomb—full of sells.'

'You'll grow up ugly if you make faces,' said a maiden to her little niece who replied by asking—'Did you make faces when you was a girl, aunty.'

Courtesy is the seed from which springs up the fruit of kindness. Scatter it broadcast, then, and let the yield be plentiful. We cannot have too much.

Pride is a vice not only dreadfully mischievous in human society, but perhaps of all others, the most insuperable bar to real inward improvement.

A Boston physician says he has patient in charge married at fourteen, and who at thirty seven had been the mother of twenty five living children.

Mrs Tinning, of Burlington, Vt., has buried two husbands, been divorced from a third, married a fourth, and accomplished thirteen child en in the thirty-eight years of her eventful life. She must need reining.

THE AMERICAN WASHER!

PRICE, $5.50.

The American Washer saves Money, Time, and Drudgery.

The Fatigue of Washing Day no longer dreaded, but Economy, Efficiency, and Clean Clothing sure.

In calling public attention to this little machine, a few of the invaluable qualities, (not possessed by any other washing machine yet invented,) are here enumerated.

It is the smallest, most compact, most portable, most simple in construction, most easily operated. A child ten years old, with a few hours practice, can thoroughly comprehend and effectually use it. There is no adjusting, no screws to annoy, no delay in adapting. It is always ready for use! It is a perfect little wonder! It is a miniature giant, doing more work and of a better quality, than the most elaborate and costly. One half of the labor is fully saved by its use, and the clothes will last one half longer than by the old plan of the rub board. It will wash the largest blanket. Three shirts at a time, washing thoroughly! In a word, the ablution of any fabric, from a quilt to a lace curtain or cambric handkerchief, are equally within the capacity of the Little Gem! It can be fastened to any tub and taken off at will.

No matter how deep rooted a prejudice may exist against Washing Machines, the moment this little machine is seen to perform its wonders, all doubts of its cleansing efficacy and utility are banished, and the doubter and detractor at once become fast friends of the machine.

We have testimonials without end, setting forth its numerous advantages over all others, and from hundreds who have thrown aside the unwieldy, useless machines, which have signally failed to accomplish the object promised in prominent and loud sounding advertisements.

It is as perfect for washing as a wringer is for wringing. The price another paramount inducement to purchasers, has been placed so low that it is within the reach of every housekeeper, and there is no article of domestic economy that will repay the small investment so soon.

All that is asked for this great labor saver, is a fair trial. We guarantee each machine to do its work perfectly. Sole agents for the United States.

THE IMPROVED AMERICAN

Button-Hole, Overseaming,

—AND—

Complete Sewing Machine.

The first and only Button-hole and Sewing machine combined that has made its advent in this or any other country.

Family Machine to Purchase

1. Because it will do everything that any machine can do, sewing from the finest to the coarsest material, hemming, felling, cording, braiding, binding, guthering and sewing on at the same time, ruffling, quilting &c, better than any other machine.

Because the tensions are more easily adjusted than any other machine.

2. Because it can make a beautiful button hole, making as fine a pearl as by hand.

4. Because it will embroider over the edge, making a neat and beautiful border on any garment.

5. Because it will make a beautiful eyelet hole.

6. Because it can do overhand seaming, by which sheets, pillow cases, and the like are sewed over and over.

7. Because you can quickly raise or lower the feed to adapt it to thick or thin cloth.

8. Because you have a short deep bobbin by which the thread is constantly drawn from the center; the tension is consequently even and does not break the thread.

9. Because the presser foot turns back; that the cloth can be easily removed after being sewed.

10. Because the best mechanics pronounce it the best finished and made on the best principle of any machine manufactured.

11. Because it has a better shuttle than any other machine.

12. Because it runs easier and quieter than any other heavy machine.

13. Because it is two machines in one—a button hole working and sewing machine combined.

It is to last a lifetime, and therefore one is wanted that will do the most work, and do it the best, and this machine can do several kinds of sewing not done on any other machine, besides doing every kind that all others can do.

The American or Plain Sewing Machine

Is a beautiful family and light manufacturing machine, possessing all the superior qualities of the combined machine, except making button holes and overseaming. In all other respects the principal of construction is the same.

These Machines are Warranted.

DR. WHITTIER

296 Penn St. Pittsburg, Pa.

A REGULAR GRADUATE OF MEDICINE; AS DIPLOMA at office will show, has been longer engaged in the treatment of Venereal, Sexual and Private Diseases than any other physician in Pittsburg.

Syphilis, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Orchitis, Hernia or Rupture; all Urinary Diseases and Syphilitic or Mercurial Affections of the Throat, Skin or Bones are treated with unparalleled success.

Spermatorrhœa, Sexual Debility and Impotency, as the result of self-abuse in youth, sexual excesses in maturer years, or other causes, and which produce some of the following effects, as nocturnal emissions, blotches, debility, dizziness, dimness of sight, confusion of ideas, evil forebodings, aversion to society of females, loss of memory and sexual power rendering marriage improper, are permanently cured. Sealed pamphlet relating to above sent for two stamps. Call or write, a friendly talk costs nothing. Medicine sent everywhere. It is self evident that a physician who treats thousands of cases every year acquires skill. Country physicians knowing this frequently recommend persons to my care.
